

SECRETARY WALLACE AT POINT OF DEATH

NEW YORK IS SAFE FOR COOLIDGE BY 500,000

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1924, by the Janesville Gazette-Special Correspondence to the Janesville Gazette.

New York City.—All through the United States from coast to coast the question most often asked in political discussion has been "Will Al Smith help Davis to carry New York state?" After an investigation among men who know what is going on in the Empire state the conclusion seems warranted that the entry of La Follette into the race has complicated the situation to the point where a fair test of the respective candidacies of Al Smith and young Theodore Roosevelt on the one hand or Coolidge and Davis on the other hand will not be obtained on election day.

The scratching of tickets is not only anticipated on a larger scale than ever before, but combinations are being made which will affect the result.

There are those who think they will help Al Smith's ultimate career in politics most by voting for him. (Continued on Page 2)

HERE ARE SOME OF LARGE INCOME TAX FIGURES IN U. S.

(Special to the Gazette)

New York.—Great incomes are indicated by the payment of taxes in New York, as disclosed by the tax reports. The largest paid was by Harry Payne Whitney of $2,041,561. Others well known are Otto Skinner, $12,071; Attorney General Stone, $6,722; Al Smith, 61 cents; F. B. Caldwell, the comic strip artist, $2,229; Carl Lummia, the motion picture, $30,259; the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, 51 cents; Paul Cravath, $76,734; Avery Hopwood, dramatist, $2,742.

IN MILWAUKEE OFFICE

Inspection of income tax amounts of local individuals and firms, as provided in the ruling sent out by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair with the approval of Secretary of the Treasury, Mellon, must be made either at Milwaukee or Washington, D. C., according to J. E. O'Brien, deputy collector here. The files of the collection office will be open to inspection to those who apply, he said, but the law prohibits the publishing of the amounts of any individual or company, he said. Amounts paid by individuals are in most cases on file in Milwaukee. It was stated, with those of corporations, partnerships, and the larger individual amounts are obtainable only at Washington.

Corporation reports were among the latest and some are: American Locomotive Company, $1,077,069; Union Pacific $1,012,656; American Tobacco Company, $2,127,605; Allied Chemical and Dye Corp., $2,252,529; Southern Pacific, $2,169,770; Western Union $1,761,120; D. L. and W. R. R. $1,514,275; American Can, $1,531,153; P. W. Woolworth Company, $2,744,565.

Chicago.—William Wrigley, Jr., chewing gum baron, and real estate magnate, pays an income tax of $86,513. Others include: Standard Oil of Indiana, $1,921,722; Pullman company, $1,160,000; Sears and company, $2,307,585; Illinois Central, $2,122,163; John Hertz, $102,245; John A. Patterson, $121,452; James F. Burke, $121,688.

How to Arrange the Quick Sale of a Range

One thing you do not do is to range up and down the streets of Janesville, ringing door bells and stopping passers-by to ask them if they want to buy a gas range. That would be hopeless—a thousand times as long as looking for the proverbial needle in the haystack.

The real way to get within range of Janesville buyers is to invest a small sum of money in Gazette Classified Advertising.—The Hewitt, 1221 Putnam avenue, did.

As soon as Mr. Hewitt's ad appeared, range customers began to appear. In all there were six of them who appeared, and he was very pleased with the results of his ad.

YOU can easily experience the same sensations when you want to sell a range—or anything else.

All there is to it is to call phone 2509 and ask for an ad-taker.

Coolidge and Dawes Electors in Wisconsin

Voters have been asked in Wisconsin, the votes cast for Coolidge would be counted for him.

The answer is "yes."

There is an electoral ticket on the presidential ballot for Coolidge and Dawes. There are in electors pledged to vote that way if elected. All that is necessary is to make a mark in the circle under the name of the elector on the presidential ballot and you will count for Coolidge and Dawes.

Mr. Nisbet completed preliminary arrangements Wednesday that assure the trip to Kansas City, the first ever made by a Rock county herd.

A fine example of the fame of Rock county was the special invitation extended to Rock county through (Continued on Page 4)

INTERIOR AIDE OIL WITNESS IN U. S. SUIT

Los Angeles.—With hostilities suspended over the week end, the usual Saturday court recess opposing counsel to the government suit to cancel Elk Hills naval oil reserve leases, held by Denney Industries, today were organizing their forces for resumption of the legal battle in federal court Monday.

Edward C. Finney, assistant secretary of the Interior, was on the witness stand when the first week of the lease cancellation trial was concluded late yesterday, and his cross-examination by defense counsel is expected to furnish the feature of Monday's session.

It was but a fortnight after Al Smith took office as secretary of the Interior in March, 1921, that he called specifically for detailed information on naval oil lands. Finney testified yesterday, two months later President Harding signed an executive order transferring control of naval oil reserves to the department of the Interior and a few months after that the disputed Elk Hills leases and contracts were awarded to E. L. Denney's Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company.

ACTION TO LIMIT TAX PUBLICATION SCORED BY BADGER

LA FOLLETTE IN DEMAND ON COUZENS FOR NEW QUIZ.

"WILL SUBVERTED" Spirit of Legislation Is Defeated by Mellon, Declares Bob.

BULLETIN.—Washington.—Newspapers can expect no guiding suggestion from the government within 48 hours to aid them in determining whether they can publish facts relating to income tax payments without violation of law. The department of justice will be unable to announce its conclusions before Monday and Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue announced today that he would have nothing further to say.

Kingston, N. Y.—Senator Couzens, chairman of a committee authorized to investigate the internal revenue bureau, was urged today by Senator La Follette, independent presidential candidate, to call Secretary Mellon and Commissioner Blair of the bureau before the committee and to ask them "by what authority they seek to 'subvert the will of congress'."

In sending a telegram to Mr. Couzens suggesting such action, Mr. La Follette, who was on his way south from Syracuse, took compliance of published reports that the two officials have objected to the publication by newspapers of the names of tax payers and the amounts of their income taxes.

Speculating he understood Mr. Blair had issued a warning "threatening newspapers with fine and imprisonment" if they published such information, Senator La Follette said he believed the commissioner's "threat violated the spirit of the publicity amendment of the revenue act and subverts the intent of congress that the public should know who is paying taxes and how much they pay."

"The purpose of this amendment," declared Mr. La Follette's telegram to Mr. Couzens, was "to provide a means of checking up on tax dodgers by exposing the facts to public scrutiny." This purpose will be defeated if publication is prevented.

Senator La Follette had in prospect a week-end rest in Aiken, Md.

Washington, D. C.—The process of revising the income tax returns in connection with efforts to corroborate somewhat sensational, but as yet unproven, stories, regarding the alleged misuse of funds in the republican campaign, the senate committee today investigating committee stood today in recess.

Recommencing the inquiry Monday, the senators will "explore new fields, among them the 'straw vote' taken by the Literary Digest in the presidential campaign."

Big Push Is on to Complete Fund for Y Building

The Y. M. C. A. new building campaign for $275,000 has entered the danger zone, but has a fighting chance to win. This is the careful estimate of those close to the heart of the movement. Only by strenuous action on the part of the workers and a more liberal and rapid response from the people of Janesville is it possible for the campaign to win through on schedule time next Tuesday night.

"Campaigns like this in other cities are usually won in the home stretch by an extra spurt of the workers and a demonstration of co-operation and enthusiasm on the part of the people."

Keller is the youngest department commander in the Legion. He is 30 years old. A month previous to his graduation from Marquette university of law school in 1917, he pledged himself to serve his country. Six months later, during which he had been admitted to the bar, he was commissioned a second lieutenant at Fort Sheridan. He embarked for overseas with the 15th machine gun battalion of the 122nd division, serving with that outfit during the war and after the armistice went into Germany with the Army of Occupation.

Commander Keller has been active in Legion work since the organization came into being. He was adjutant of the Appleton post four years, executive committee member for the ninth district one year, post commander one year and last year was director of department membership. In Legion work, he provided himself an orator of no mediocrity and effected a decided increase in membership in the Wisconsin division which now ranks seventh in the United States and fourth in percentage of increase.

Don't forget to take your Kodak with you tomorrow.

Mr. McManus entertained the children for more than an hour with some of his own fairy stories telling "The Three Tinks" and "The Story of Rory O'Flann." Rory was especially attractive when the master teller brought him to Janesville Wisconsin with the king of fairies.

Arrangements for the story hour were made by the Catholic Women's club which sponsored the McManus lecture "Irish Fairy and Folk" Friday night at St. Patrick's hall.

Political Notes

John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate, on his return from his final western campaign, declared the democratic will win the presidential election and control congress.

Attorney General Stone, in a speech at Des Moines, said the proposed La Follette supreme court amendment would, if adopted, create in congress a centralized political organization not unlike the Roman empire.

In the midst of campaign speeches, President Coolidge has had thrust upon him the job of listening to a bitter controversy between Washington reformers and their landlords.

It is now possible to make a journey by regular service from Paris to Vienna in 10 hours.

CALVIN ALL SET, SAYS JUNIOR HIGH

President Runs Away With Poll; Bob Is Second; Davis Also Ran.

Calvin Coolidge has been elected by an overwhelming plurality, Mr. La Follette took a lot of votes and was a good second, but the democratic candidate didn't stand a chance. He got only six votes.

Working on the slogan "As goes the junior high school so goes the country," the president may be assured of another four years' free rent in the executive mansion. Youthful orators have spent high school assembly periods throughout the week trying to convince the not-too-easily convinced students that their particular candidate was the most desirable.

The vote was taken this morning and when the announcement of the returns was made Friday, and Mr. Coolidge won, each said to the other "I told you so."

Mr. LaFollette made a good showing among the more dissatisfied of the voters, and the Wisconsin senator came in a good second.

Little faith was shown in the democratic candidate, and Mr. Davis "also ran." Those who are known to have cast ballots for him are looked upon as curiosities by their fellow students, who whisper that the language of their forefathers is too strongly felt.

Much political "mud-slinging" and complicated discussions by "platform" and attitudes on the Ku Klux Klan, tariff and the hundred and one other considerations which enlightened voters are forced to consider, were discussed by groups in hall corners, and the possibilities of this candidate and that, and they were weighed with care. But the republicans, confident of their victory, came through as they have in the past, their world, and Coolidge swept the school by a grand plurality.

Five local men attended the convention, with James A. Pethers, the grand secretary, having held that office for 25 years, among the state officers.

Mr. Koehlein, who is a life-long resident of this city, has been active in the Odd Fellows since his entrance to the lodge, July 10, 1888. A few years later he joined Rock River encampment No. 2, another branch of the lodge. Since that time Mr. Koehlein has held all of the offices, both in the subordinate and encampment lodges.

COOLIDGE TO WIN NEW YORK STATE BY HALF MILLION

(Continued from page 1.) Governor and for someone else besides Davis for president—usually La Follette. There are those who think republicanism will elect Al Smith will be traded for democratic votes for Coolidge.

But much of this can be brushed aside as beyond the actual control of the leaders themselves. For Tammany is wise enough to recognize that to win for Al Smith they must wage a hard, for Davis. No practical politician likes to face a situation in which his only hope of victory is in a scratched ticket. His aim usually is to win votes for a straight ticket.

This is the safest politics and Tammany knows it. Within the past week Tammany has seemed to realize that its objective must be a straight ticket or else run the risk of finding Al Smith crowned under by the very same tactics of straight ticket voting on the part of the republicans, who hope to carry Roosevelt into office on the crest of the Coolidge wave.

Will Al Save Day?

To begin with, New York state is normally republican. It went for Hughes in 1916 as against Wilson and for 20 years or more has not gone democratic with the exception of 1912, the year of the split republican vote. So when Al Smith was persuaded to run, it was with a recognition that he alone might save the day. Otherwise the state was conceded to the republicans.

Two weeks ago Al Smith seemed to be handicapped by his own national ticket to such an extent that repetition of 1920 was freely expected. On that occasion Harding carried New York by a million votes while Smith made the amazing run of sixty thousand votes behind the victorious candidate for governor.

Somewhat the same sort of outcome can be looked for this year except that Coolidge is not as strong as Harding was in 1920 and La Follette has come into the picture and will draw heavily from the democracy in the metropolis. One of the close friends of the writer in the democratic management said that a fortnight ago he felt Coolidge would "carry" the state by 200,000 and Al Smith by 60,000, but that he thinks now there is a drift to Davis which might possibly make the race a little closer.

Half a Million Lead

Another well posted individual high in the councils of the republican management discloses that the most realistic leader in New York state republican politics so far as making prediction estimates is concerned, is the Coolidge plurality at 200,000.

Perhaps the clearest way to state the case is to say that Coolidge will get not only as many votes as Davis, but La Follette combined and probably from 200,000 to 400,000 more. As for the gubernatorial race, a lead of a million votes by Coolidge would thus carry Smith to defeat. The La Follette vote will be considerable, and it will be noticed that in previous years Smith has always had the so-called "safe" vote.

He has fought his battles on more than one occasion and, curiously enough, they did not get from young Roosevelt in the famous contest over the seating of socialists the same ardent support they received from Smith. But it cannot be expected that the republican ticket this year will receive substantial support anyway, for it has been given the wholehearted support of the business and financial elite who have centered their whole thought on carrying New York state for Coolidge irrespective of the governorship.

Roosevelt Draws Crowds

Young Roosevelt draws big crowds. The republicans say he holds them and they flock; the democrats insist the people come out of curiosity and are disappointed.

On psychology alone, the same reason which underlies the case for Coolidge are present with respect to Al Smith. The state is conservative. It is not in a mood to change. It does not want experimental government. Al Smith is popular. In New York he has lost none of his strength. The betting favors him and they are giving odds that he will win. It favors Coolidge too.

Does Al Smith help Davis? When the ballots are counted it will be found that the two democratic nominees who run clearest together in New York state than the state and national tickets in other states. Smith will help Davis but he cannot pull him to victory. He has a hard fight himself.

WAKE UP, JANESVILLE!

Only 670 Persons Have Been Reported As Subscribers to the Y. M. C. A. Building Fund.

The Campaign for $275,000 Closes Next Tuesday Night—$116,708 more needed to hold the $158,292 which less than 700 people have subscribed—conditional upon the entire $275,000 being raised.

Janesville will get an awful black eye if this campaign fails. All Wisconsin is watching Janesville. They put over Y. M. C. A. Building Campaigns in Appleton, Beloit, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Madison, Racine, Superior and other cities—WHY NOT IN JANESVILLE? There has never been a Y. M. C. A. building failure in Wisconsin.

What good will it do to boast about the advantages and glories of Janesville and fall down on raising $275,000 for a Y. M. C. A. Other cities will certainly give Janesville the laugh if we fall down on the "Y" job. Janesville can't afford to fail. Never mind whether this is the best time or not, we are in it and must put it over—AND IT CAN BE DONE.

The Y. M. C. A. is always a community project—the success of a Y. M. C. A. campaign is good city advertising. It boosts property interests. Come on Realtors, get back of the "Y." It helps the economic interests of the city—come on Chamber of Commerce men, push the "Y" project. The "Y" helps moral and religious interests—Church Folks should back the Y. M. C. A.—Yes, the "Y" is for "You"—Are you for the "Y"? SAY IT WITH DOLLARS.

THIS IS FOR JANESVILLE

A modern Y. M. C. A. is just as practical and just as essential as street cars, telephone, water works, sewerage, sidewalks, paved streets, electric lights and other public utilities. At least other cities think so. Come on Janesville—do this job right—a substantial, prosperous city like Janesville must invest some money in character building.

The boys and young men reap the benefits of the Y. M. C. A. Is $275,000 too much for resourceful Janesville to spend to give its youth the Y. M. C. A. opportunities? Remember Indicative of an unusually heavy vote in Janesville at the presidential election on Nov. 4, is the great demand for votes by mail reported by City Clerk-Treasurer A. J. Olson, who has received more than 40 requests for ballots, with the election still 10 days away. This is the largest advance demand recorded here in recent years and is expected to be increased to more than 100 by next week.

Then comes the state ticket, printed on white paper, and the referendum on three proposed constitutional amendments, printed on pink paper.

Registration day will be held in the city Tuesday, with the 10 polls open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. to receive all electors who did not vote in the primary in September. Voters may wish to get out the vote, a larger registration than usual is expected, including the names of many people who have had the franchise for several years but have never exercised it.

Auto Key Thefts

With the aid of school Newman has cleared up the mystery of auto key thefts Saturday when two 9-year old boys admitted to judge H. L. Maxfield that they and several other half-dozen of them "for the fun of it." Their cases were held open with the warning they would be sent to Waubesa industrial school if caught again.

A 14-year old runaway boy from the Fourth ward, who has been leading police a merry chase the past week, faced the judge Saturday and his mother signed a statement permitting the vocational school director, G. J. Ebert, to use corporal punishment if necessary to get the boy on the right road. He was convicted of being a delinquent child and sentence was deferred.

Brick Work on
Lutheran Church
Nears Completion

THE NEW CHURCH

Possibilities are bright for finishing brick work on the new First Lutheran church, corner of North Jackson and Ravenna streets, next week, according to J. H. Hansen, chairman of the building committee, and high hopes are being held out that it will be entirely enclosed before the first of the season. A crew of carpenters is at work upon the roof, the ridge of which is already in place.

Six masons, assisted by five helpers, are pushing the brick work forward at a good pace, and practically all that is left to be done is the upper parts of the two towers, which ornament the two corners of the building facing on Jackson street, and the heavier work on the gables on the north and south sides.

All that is being hoped for this fall is that the outside construction work be as nearly finished as possible, so that the structure can be braced, in order to permit plaster work and interior decorating to go on this winter. It is anticipated that the new church will be ready for dedication by Easter, and that date is being considered as appropriate.

In addition to the masons and carpenters, plumbers are at work installing fixtures, and three men are painting the sewer.

Milwaukee—Wisconsin ranks eighth in number of teachers enrolled in the state teachers' association.

Money Did Not Weigh in Ontario Election

Money was impotent in the Ontario election although at a time it was believed prohibition would be defeated and the rascal be reestablished in our nearest neighbor nation on the north. The inducement was simple—Americans would come in droves to drink and spend their money there in Ontario, instead of going to Quebec as now. It happens to be farther to Quebec and the larger cities of Detroit and Buffalo are on the Ontario border. It was this sordid reason which formed the leading argument for voting against prohibition, and the Ontario cities fell for it by giving a majority for liquor. Our cities are sordid places anyway, and the edge of morals is more blunted there than in the rural districts. In the city, this stream of American money seeking drink was a temptation. It was not a pretty thing to say of America but it was possibly with a great element of truth that it was given weight. The province has refused to return to the whiskey business. If Ontario will give support to the law in a greater sense than in the past, rum running into the United States will be checked. Officials will have no reason to be dorellist in their duty now that the law has been given a recondemation by the people of Ontario.

The whiskey and beer business is criminal and must go.

Our idea of the Indian has been growing better if this is a sample of the summer he provides.

On Voting for Coolidge in Wisconsin

Numerous requests for information as to Coolidge and Dawes electors have come to the Gazette.

There are 13 men and women beneath the names of Calvin Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, for president and vice president, on the presidential ballot headed "Republican." Underneath the word "Republican" is a circle. All the voters need to do is to mark a cross in that circle and he or she will have voted for Calvin Coolidge. These electors are pledged to vote for the national republican candidates. In the 100 years of the electoral system, there has not been an instance of an elector chosen as a representative of a candidate, voting any other way.

The Coolidge electors, while chosen by the Madison platform convention, are Coolidge men and women, tried and true. It has been suggested that because the Coolidge electors were chosen as they were, they might vote for La Follette. But Mr. La Follette has a ticket of his own. It is under the head "Independent." There is no circle under the name. One mark cannot be made in order to vote that ticket. It will require 13 marks, a cross having to be made after each elector on the La Follette ballot.

Clerks and inspectors of elections will find that ruling as a part of the election methods for this year. Tickets marked with a cross under the word "Independent" will be thrown out as illegal ballots.

The "Blocks of Five"

In Senator La Follette's charge concerning a "republican slush fund," he falls in accuracy of history. He said that Senator Hanna was the author of the "blocks of five" letter in 1896. And further that the letter was sent to Col. Dudley. The statement is wrong in three particulars. The famous or infamous "blocks of five" was an Indiana affair and it occurred in 1883. It was at this election also that Robert M. La Follette was chosen to congress for the second time as a supporter of Gen. Harrison. He should remember better. General W. W. Dudley was a member of the republican national committee of 1888 when Benjamin Harrison was a candidate for the presidency. There was no "Col." Dudley. No letter was sent to Dudley. Mark Hanna had not appeared in national politics at that time. On October 24, 1883, General Dudley sent from New York a letter to the campaign managers in Indiana in which was the following:

Divide the voters into blocks of five and put a trusted man with necessary funds in charge of these five, and make him responsible that none get away and that all vote our ticket.

One of the letters fell into the hands of a mail clerk who sent it to the democratic national committee. General Benj. Harrison, a neighbor of Dudley's, repudiated the letter, refused thereafter to have anything to do with Gen. Dudley and would not permit him to call at the White House. It was a personal attempt on the part of the Indiana political manager to carry the state and had no support by the republican national committee at that time. B. F. Jones, of Pittsburgh, was the chairman, a man of the highest type and a citizen of no mean attainments.

Senator La Follette has a habit of making such statements without facts to back him up. He was anxious, apparently, to tie up Mark Hanna with the episode and paid no attention to the truth. There had never been any "blocks of five" before that time and certainly, had there been, any since, it would have become public because these things cannot be concealed. It is crooked politics—just as crooked as a great fund by a nonpartisan league, which need not be reported under the corrupt practices act.

TAKING OFF WEIGHT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington—Politics may have its paramount issues, but it has none of such keen interest and importance to women as the problem of how to retain the slender, boyish figure that is the vogue of the day, or how to regain it once it has been lost and engulfed in a mass of adipose tissue. Putting on weight is one thing; taking it off is something else.

That is the spectre that haunts most women—and some men. With the latter, however, it is usually a question of health and longevity. They have found that excessive weight has attendant ills that are distressing and menacing, and they have been warned that they must reduce if they want to live long and enjoy life.

With women it is a question of appearance. The old saying that nobody loves a fat man has an update running mate to the effect that nobody looks at a fat woman. That is, nobody gives her a second look, save to say, "How awful!" And women not only like to be looked at, but they want the second look to be one of admiration. To women of the screen and stage, and even to women in the professions and in business, the trim figure is not only an asset but a necessity, and many of them fight harder to ward off the encroaching pounds than they would to keep the wolf away from the door.

Why? Perhaps, in some cases. But more often it is a matter of business, common sense and refinement. There are those who say that the person who is over-fat in body is usually fat in the head, and that the triple chin is the sign of self-indulgence.

However that may be, the subject of surplus weight is one of the momentous questions of the hour. This is evidenced by the innumerable articles and stories on various phases of the subject that are appearing constantly in newspapers and magazines, by the huge sums that are spent advertising nostrums and methods for reducing, by the experience of physicians, by the popularity of Turkish bath and massage establishments, and by the vastly increased interest of women in gymnastic exercises and in all forms of outdoor sports.

Tea-time talk, boudoir confidences and dinner table conversation furnish an abundance of testimony in corroboration. "In dieting," is heard more frequently among women nowadays than "in on the waterwagon" was among men in the old ante-prohibition days.

"How did you do it?" is the question put by her envious sisters to every woman who has fought a winning battle against adiposity. There are numerous answers, but they all contain one fundamental truth—it isn't easy. Fat can't be wished off. Getting rid of it is a slow and distressing process, calling for endurance, tenacity of purpose, and courage of a high order. In fact, the starvation route is the direct road to the siphon-like figure and airy-fairy-Lillian contour.

One woman whose name should be inscribed in the Hall of Fame but who modestly insists upon remaining anonymous has made a record that is a message of hope to all stout and extra-stout. In seven months she reduced her weight 160 pounds. That was five or six years ago and she has been able to retain her new proportions, with occasional relapses of 20 or 30 pounds.

This woman admits that as a piece of parter furniture she was decidedly of the over-stuffed type, when it suddenly dawned upon her that her future, if she had any, was in a museum or a sideshow. Now she is distinctly of the Sherman or Clippendale type. She weighed almost 200 pounds before she had her awakening, and she says she has no idea what her ultimate record would have been if her husband, in discussing the purchase of a new family car, hadn't suggested that a two-ton truck was what they really needed. That made her mad and she decided to show him she could train down to runabout size.

She didn't merely diet, she says. She practically quit eating! Fruit juice, dry toast, tea or black coffee with saccharine, lettuce and other green things and very rare steak were the only foods not on her proscribed list, and she partook of very little of any of those. She says it was a narrowing experience for seven months, but at the end of that time she weighed only 136. Then her skin was several sizes too large for her and hung in wrinkles and folds all over her, but nature presently adjusted that.

Ordinarily, now she eats anything she cares for, but in much smaller quantities than formerly. She finds that she slowly gains weight, but when she wants to check that gain she takes a diet of canned tomatoes—nothing but tomatoes as they come from the can—and takes off half a pound a day until she is satisfied with the result. Her sister, who has never been so mountainous but who has a tendency toward adiposity, says that with a lettuce-tea-toast diet and fifteen minutes of daily exercise—bending, twisting, writhing and rolling—she can take off four pounds a week.

Screen stars and the much-filmed bathing beauties are especially interested in this world-wide problem for they have to keep slim to hold their jobs. There is no place in picture-land for a fat woman, and a fat girl except as a comic relief and who wears a costume that hides her bulk. Recently published a symposium of the experiences and views of the screen notables, and almost without any exception they agreed that work and diet, exercise and starvation, are the only solutions of the problem.

Nita Naldi bears witness to the efficacy of the lamb chop and pineapple diet, saying that it pulled her down twenty pounds in a month. But, she continues, "one must suffer hordes to be thin—don't believe anyone who tells you a different remedy. As nearly as I can tell, the lamb chop and pineapple diet cuts down your weight because it plays hob with the stomach. I know my advocates say it couldn't possibly, but they haven't lived with my stomach!"

Reba Daniels says she doesn't diet, but she has four kinds of exercise to keep her figure under control. One of these exercises is hard work, by which she lost sixteen pounds in three weeks. Anita Stewart testifies that green vegetables keep her a perfect sixteen.

Miss Ferguson cuts her three a day, but they are light and she rides horseback, swims, walks and plays tennis. Gloria Swanson doesn't have to worry about keeping slender because she doesn't think enough to keep a hummingbird alive. Constance Talmadge says she deserves her slimmness because she has worked for it—walking, tennis, golf and dancing, and the daily dozen. Her sister, Norma, supplements that with a dieting and five periods of deep breathing every day. Rollo Skating keeps Viola Dana and her sister, Shirley Mason, "in form." Lois Wilson believes in the Turkish bath, Priscilla Dean goes in for tennis, swimming and the daily dozen, and Alice Terry says she does not believe in any trick diets but relies on massage and exercise if she finds it too good to be true.

One thing is to be noted as common in the experience of all those who reduce—alcoholic beverages must be eliminated!

The Palmyra Enterprise says the easiest thing is to plead guilty to liquor law violations and pay a fine of a hundred dollars or so. "That was put away in the beginning for that purpose." The Enterprise wants a jail sentence. But what is the use of jail when the parole law immediately gets the violator out and he can start all over again?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE DISAGREEABLE TASK
Is the task you have unpleasant?
Do you hate it through and through?
Not at all the sort of duty
Which delights you with its beauty?
Not the thing you like to do?
Then your character will tell
If you'll try to do it well.

Any man will gladly labor.
At the task which gives him joy:
Finding happiness and pleasure
He will even spend his leisure
At a bit of work, my boy.
But life has a sterner test.
Does the mean task get your best?

There are disagreeable duties
Every man is called to do.
Tasks which bring no thrill of pleasure
But they get his size and measure.
Does he stand and see them through?
Does he honest effort bring?
To the hateful, irksome thing?

When the hateful task and ugly
To your duty, do not shrink.
Just remember for the present
If all forms of toil were pleasant
We should never learn to work.
This a real man's worth will tell:
His does his service well.

HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1924
Fair fortunes smile on mortals today, according to astrology. Jupiter, Venus and Neptune are all in benefic aspect with transits which are adverse.

Under this planetary government all progressive activities should be stimulated. It is a lucky day for starting new enterprises. Bankers should find this rule most fortunate for their business prospects in general. To be widely involved in foreign affairs, because of unlooked for crisis in Europe and the Orient.

Bleeding are forecast for those who wed today, for they have the inauspicious influence of love and material prosperity.

Theaters again are subject to the most brilliant promise and openings of new plays today should be particularly auspicious.

Women are subject to much better influences than they have been in recent months. They should succeed in business and in political ambitions.

Once more oil and oil interests come under the best possible direction of the stars. It is forecast that great consumption of gasoline will be made necessary by national emergencies.

Hotel keepers and all who cater to the needs of the people should profit in an extraordinary manner in the next month.

Residence and discontent may manifest itself in much changing of location and removals from private homes.

Serious floods in the south of Europe may mark the early winter. Much suffering will be reduced by the timely arrival of relief.

Scandals in which public men are involved will be uncovered at this time, owing to the influence of Neptune. It is predicted.

The death of a king or ruler is prophesied for the month.

Persons whose birthdays it is may expect rather a happy and prosperous year. Girls should be cautious in making new friends.

Children born on this day probably will have very eventful careers. These subjects of Scorpio usually meet much opposition on which they easily overcome in gaining success and wealth. Girls may be inclined to marry old men.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

Dear Sir:
Is a girl who is only 54 inches tall (about 4 1/2 feet) a dwarf? Yes, of course. She weighs 102 pounds, and at the age of 23 years is just the height of the average 12 year old girl.

But in the case of the girl who belongs to Janesville there are so many under-sized men and women, I know many Jewish women no taller than myself. And we all admit that they are not dwarfs.

American people of almost all other races, and especially the Anglo-Saxon, are taller.

I danced with a six-footer recently who was an Englishman. He was of average size. He asked for a dance when I was sitting down—the trunk of my body is as long as the normal. It seems to be my lot that I am short. I guess I got cheated (or less).

Sometimes I feel as if I would like to hide away and not mix with normal people at all. I suppose I am terribly self-conscious. Wouldn't you?

I know how you feel. There's a newspaper guy in Chicago built like the chap you danced with. Walking along the street with that guy I generally have to take the curb side in order to keep my coat out of people and quite unconsciously we get to calling each other "Mutt and Jeff."

Science has not yet achieved the control of stature. Maybe this is just as well, for if there were some means of increasing or decreasing stature all the Muts would become Jeffs and all the Jeffs would become Muts, so we'd be as bad off as ever.

There are racial differences and hereditary differences in stature which are difficult to account for. The Italians average considerably shorter than the French or the English, and the English average shorter than Americans. The people in our western states average taller than the people in the eastern states. The natives of the Kentucky mountains are famous for their high average stature. Chinese run taller than Japanese. Northern races generally average taller than southern races. There is nothing but heredity and theory to explain these differences of stature.

In certain cases of lowered or defective stature, a function of the growth is much retarded, and in some of these cases striking gains in height have been recorded when suitable ductless gland extracts or hormones have been given over a prolonged period. Dr. Brodwin reported in the New York Journal of Medicine in 1903 a case of a girl girl of 13 years who had St. Vitus' dance and ceased growing. He gave her a pituitary gland extract and she gained over an inch in height in three months. A boy of 12 years who also had St. Vitus' dance and seemed to have retarded growth gained two inches in 10 months, and in another 10 months he made a further gain of three inches—a total gain of five inches in less than two years, with a consequent gain of 20 pounds. He gained a boy at 12 was 56 inches tall and weighed only 70 pounds.

Whether anything of the kind offers even a hope of increasing growth is a problem to put up to your own physician, who can determine by seeing and examining you whether there are any indications of ductless gland deficiency in your case. There is no more information or advice I can give on the subject—so don't write me if you're short. I'm short myself.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Are peaches all right for a person with Bright's disease? (W. C.)
Answer:—There is no special diet suitable for all cases of Bright's disease. The diet must be arranged for the particular case. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for advice on diet and other aspects of Bright's disease.

No Scurvy Intended.
I understand you claim there is no scurvy in weight "reducers." Will you please explain just what these so-called "reducers" are? (Mrs. S. A. M.)
Answer:—The misnomer is applied to the earlier stage of each of the following diseases: Measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, whooping cough, infantile paralysis, some cases of cerebriophthalmitis and to various stages of the following: Typhoid fever, influenza, bronchitis, tonsillitis, sinusitis, pneumonia, and now and then to scurvy.

Vitamins in Vegetables.
What vegetables contain vitamin A? Which contain vitamin B? Which are most healthful? (W. C.)
Answer:—Raw cabbage contains large amounts of all three vitamins. Vitamin A, which prevents night blindness, is found in carrots, spinach, and green leafy vegetables. Vitamin B, which prevents beriberi, is found in whole wheat flour and in yeast. Vitamin C, which prevents scurvy, is found in citrus fruits, tomatoes, and green peppers.

Q. Who owns Belle's Island on which the Statue of Liberty stands? (J. S. T.)
A. This land was ceded to the United States government for the purpose of harbor defense and was once occupied by Fort Wood. It was sold to the French and French time-tables. (W. W. D.)

A. Time tables are not given away by the French and English railroads as they are by those in America. The time tables are sold and published in book form. The English time tables are published in a volume called "Guide Official" and it is published by the International Sleeping Car Company, 251 Broadway, New York City. The French time tables are published in book form by the Company International de Grand Europe, 40 Rue de Valenciennes, France.

Q. What kinds of wood are used for railroad ties? (R. H.)
A. Railroad ties are made from the following woods: Oak, fir, spruce, cedar, white pine, black locust, gum, ash, beech.

Q. A British official becomes naturalized in the United States in his former country notified? (A. F. N.)
A. His native country is not notified. He must be a citizen of the United States.

Q. When were wild flowers domesticated? (A. F. N.)
A. It is not possible to state definitely. The wild flowers were domesticated. The ancient Egyptians, Greeks, Assyrians, Romans and Chinese cultivated flowers for use and beauty and raised many plants. One of the most ancient examples of cultivated plants is a drawing representing a lotus, found in the pyramid of Giza in Egypt. Authors have assigned a date varying between 1,000 and 4,000 years before the Christian era. The first notions concerning gardening were introduced into Japan by the Koreans in 645 A. D. In China 2700 years B. C. the Emperor Chien-nung instituted a ceremony in which every year five species of useful plants were sown.

Fort and Jeffs Top Valley Loop

R. R. VALLEY LEAGUE

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Opp.
Fort Atkinson	10	0	1,000	40	0
Jefferson	9	0	1,000	36	0
Madison	8	1	1,000	32	1
Lake Mills	7	2	1,000	28	2
Whitewater	6	3	1,000	24	3
Stoughton	5	4	1,000	20	4

Fort Atkinson and Jefferson are leading the Rock River valley high school league in football so far this season with three victories each and no defeats. Jefferson has a perfect league record, but has played but one game to date in the loop.

While Jefferson, with wins over Whitewater City, Milton Union and Cambridge, has piled up 72 points as against 60 points by the Fort in the loop.

Edgerton vs. Stoughton. Edgerton has but one more game in the league, that with Stoughton, Saturday, which will be a good battle. If the Robbers City should win from the Hub city, it would have the percentage race clinched, due to playing fewer games.

Fort seems to be the better team on paper. While Fort beat Milton Union only 7 to 6, the Jeffs won from Union, 26 to 12. Yet, Fort defeated Whitewater City, 27 to 0, while Jefferson was the winner over Whitewater, 20 to 0. Both teams scored the same point on Cambridge, each gaining 26 points, but Fort kept Cambridge from scoring, while Jefferson gave three points made by Cambridge.

Goal Not Crossed. Fort has played five games thus far this season and so far has not had its goal crossed nor been scored upon. This is due to the coaching ability of Clarence Beardsley. It has won four games, beating Rockton, 13 to 0, and was held to a scoreless tie by Madison. The game with Madison was a three game, under the guidance of Coach Carl Hager.

Edgerton, coached by Greenwell, a University of Illinois product, defeated West Lake, 26 to 0; won from Lake Mills, 20 to 0; and suffered a cancellation by Rockton.

Lake Mills, the only other team that is up near the top of the standings at the present time, is meeting Jefferson Saturday. It should, on the face of things, be a close game for Hager's eleven will be a margin of eight more points over Whitewater City than did the Lake.

Coach Beardsley of Lake Mills, however, is a Jefferson product, and it is to be expected naturally that he will be pointing his team especially in the hope of a victory over his home town. The game will be of importance because of this fact. The Fort does not meet Lake Mills until Nov. 15.

Union Coming Up. While Milton Union has not won a complete game this far this season, Coach Greenwell's boys are showing improvement and Union can be proud of the best team it has had in several seasons. Union has two non-conference wins to its credit, over Delavan, 20 to 0, and from Walworth, 28 to 0. It has still to meet Lake Mills, Cambridge and Stoughton.

Cambridge and Whitewater City are putting on good fights to make a showing, but thus far have not stepped into the win column. Whitewater, coached by Herbert Kaskus of Janesville, has had the misfortune of a number of damaging injuries and is handicapped by the fact that there are two high schools in Whitewater.

Stoughton is more or less of a mystery so far. The Hub town school has not yet played a league game, playing its first one against Edgerton Saturday. Edgerton, on the face of a 7-0 loss to Madison Central, while Stoughton lost to the big Madison school, 40-0, has the margin of victory in its favor. Stoughton has a win of 19 to 0 over Wisconsin high of Madison.

Duck Limit Shot in Half Hour and Only the Limit to Stop the Hunter—Here's a Yarn of Real Hunting

Here's another of the series of articles on real hunting in the Superior national forest area of far north Minnesota, along the Canadian border, where the wilds are still wild.

By LEWIS GREENCH
Of the Gazette staff
Or, Man—Besting wings:
A week of perfect Indian summer weather in the Canadian border woods, which in turn meant little duck shooting, the great northern flight not having started. The week presented glorious hiking and paddling trips with the woods abounding with color, the hard woods running a confusion of tints as compared to the staid and solid green of the pine.

Three days of a camping trip to the mighty Vermilion lake to hunt, out-of-the-way tote roads for partridge and inspect the beaver dam. Then the morning of mornings.

So, How I Hunted:
Three of us awoke at the alarm clock as it "sounded-off" at four o'clock in the morning. The two rangers rather smiled when I pulled on the hip boots, and it was not long before I realized the reason. It was not an ordinary duck hunting trip. Coffee took the sleep out of the eyes and it was a ride of some four miles directly away from Pelican lake, one of the most famous duck waters of Minnesota. There had been little shooting in the rice beds and our destination was unknown to me. The car parked in a meadow, the hike started.

It was a narrow trail through a pine swamp, with water to the knees at almost every step, and should one slip off the logs and windfalls, it was a cold plunge to the hips. The first quarter mile, I was wishing that duck hunting did not require hip boots, for continually their height was being tested in the mire. It was dark, and hard going, but the rangers plodded along as if they were walking down a road, and while I was puffing and sweating carrying an armful of gear, they were half loaded with heavy packs, with the decoys, shells and grub.

After a mile's tramp into the woods, there was a halt to find the line at further into the heart of the swamp, out of the question. It was just shot. For 20 minutes the ducks soared back and forth over that lake, affording every kind of a shot, from angles, overhead, straight-at-you and through, with now and then a cripple to be cracked before they hid away in the rushes. Every time I would be loading, along would come a detachment of that blue-bill army, presenting an excellent shot. Such action!

There was a whistle of the wings—a noise that cannot be imitated or duplicated—a quick shot and the "click" of seeing one or more birds tumble. In 20 minutes the inventory showed sufficient ducks to make the hunt.

A Hawk Appears
There was a halt in the shooting, but still the ducks kept coming. As hunters opened up at the larger lakes, it would be only a minute before a new flock would slide in, circle and settle down. We stood and watched them for half an hour, wondering at their lightning speed, ability to check right angles to the old trail going

As we watched the flight from the shore, our attention was called to a hawk circling above the lake. A new bunch of blue-bills came sailing in and down dropped the hawk as the ducks were settling. Picking out one duck, the hawk swooped, but the duck checked his flight and dropped straight into the water and dove. The hawk missing to raise and soar away, discharging the floating dead duck.

It was early noon before ducks stopped coming in, and there was a gigantic duck at rest when the hunt was packed. "They'll do for another day," remarked the ranger. "Too much shooting in daylight will drive away the ducks for the entire season."

It was a sample of what old-timers must have had at Koshkonong, for shooting was fast and furious, and it is to be regretted southern Wisconsin now knows little of such sport. Duck shooting is the king sport offered by the small game world.

But on the way back, with 42 ducks packed in the old kit bag, there was more than one time I wished shooting had not been quite so good. If only fat ducks, along with a gun, is not a good combination to hip-boots through a pine swamp. Once back to camp, with dry clothes and a partridge dinner, one changed the decision and ruled that it was worth it and then some.

Such shooting in few and far between any place in the United States.

Jefferson Gets Gazette Trophy

Jefferson high school has been awarded the Gazette traveling trophy for the best record of all-round athletics and scholarship among the schools of the Rock River Valley High School athletic league for 1923-24. This is announced by W. G. Polan, Milton, secretary of the league, after a check of the records of the several schools and a meeting of the executive committee of the league.

Jefferson had a total of 270 points, of which 157 were for athletics and 113 for scholarship.

Scholarship Records
Under the Gazette's plan to help the league create a healthy rivalry in athletics while at the same time maintaining a high standing in studies, scholarship in this case was the deciding factor. Lake Mills high had a total of 174.5 points for sports participation, but the scholastic standing gave the Lake but 62.2 points. The point standings of the schools follow:

Team	Sports	Scholarship	Total
Jefferson	157	113	270
Lake Mills	174.5	62.2	236.7
Milton	121	40.8	161.8
Stoughton	51	30.8	81.8
Whitewater	48	19	67
Edgerton	38	69	107

Note—Edgerton and Cambridge did not report their records.
In figuring the award, only regularly scheduled games were considered. The only track meet considered was the league meet at Jefferson.

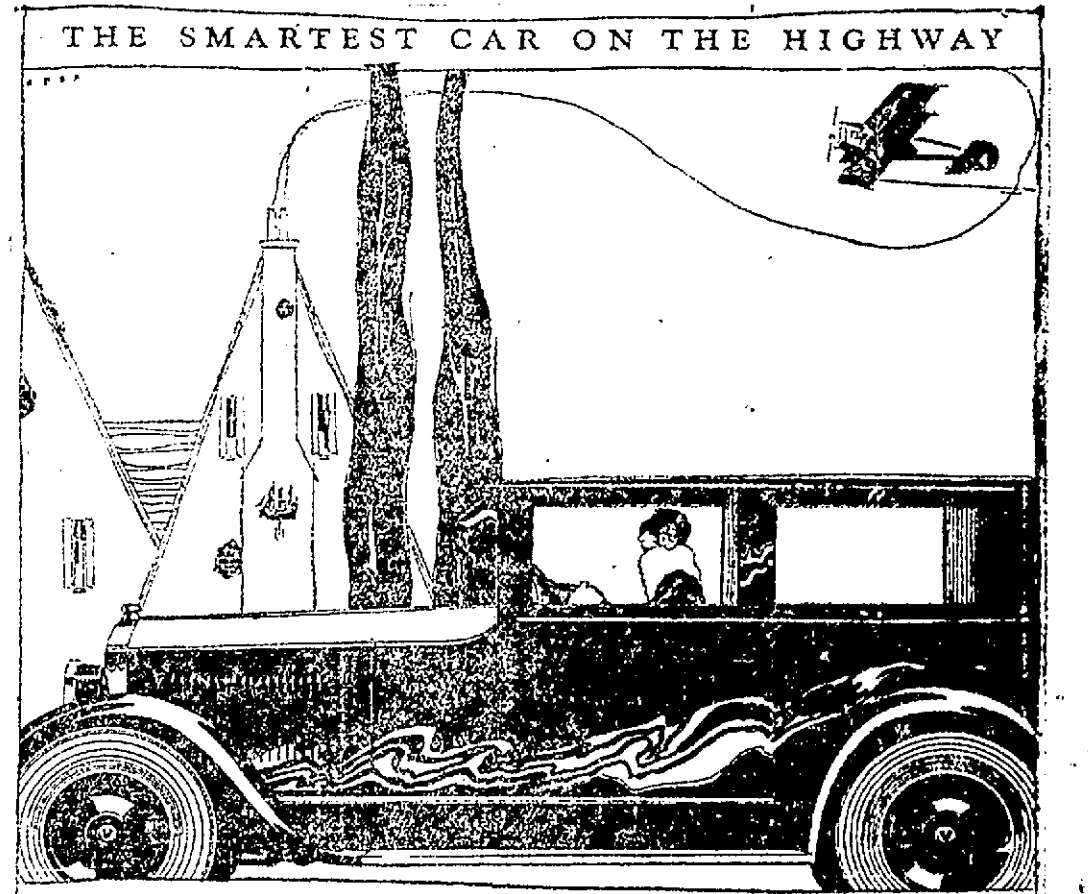

When the cup shall have been won by any school three times (not in succession) it shall become the property of that school. It is hoped, through the cup, to assist in boosting clean athletics.

How Awarded
The point basis is as follows, applicable to intra-league competition only:
For each win in basketball, 2 points; for each win in football, 12 points; for each track or field meet entered, 2 points; for each first place in a track or field meet, 5 points; for each second place in a track or field meet, 3 points; for each third place in a track or field meet, 1 point; for each win in tennis singles, 2 points; for each doubles tennis win, 3 points; swimming, same as track; golf, same as tennis; and for each league championship, per each sport, 25 points.

In order to become eligible to compete for the cup, each team of each

Brown Rot Is in Every Field of Potatoes in State

"The potatoes that have signs of brown rot in shallow layers and allow a free circulation of dry air. This will mean a loss of 25 to 50 percent of the crop," so declares R. E. Vaughan, potato disease specialist, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

Vaughan has just returned from a trip out into the potato fields of every section of the state and found the brown rot in every field. He is also receiving reports from other counties showing brown rot infection. It is possible that the rot infection has spread over the south and eastern areas of the state, for it was in these localities that heavy rainfall prevailed, which, coupled with late frosts, helped to produce the conditions that foster the brown rot growth on the tubers.

"Brown rot is a disease that invariably follows the late blight of the leaves," says Vaughan. "The conditions are such that the vines continue to harbor the blight, bring rot settles under the skin of the tubers. It is a disease that is a shrivelled up appearance with a brownish coloration under the skin. A secondary condition that follows is the brown rot in the soft rot. This comes about when the potatoes are dug wet and piled in deep piles. Such conditions start the potatoes to heating and with brown rot present, there will soon be a mass of soft rot that continues to spread to every potato in the pile."

"Soft rot," says Vaughan, "is a disease that has no signs of brown rot, and then the remainder of the tubers into a shallow pile where there is a free circulation of dry air and there will be very little danger of the wet rot."

HIGHER TARIFF ON
SWISS CHEESE SOUGHT

Under orders from President Coolidge, D. H. McNall of the University of Wisconsin is working in Europe and other sections on an investigation of production costs that may pave the way for a higher tariff on Swiss cheese.

The president of the Wisconsin cheese producers' association, who find foreign competition a menace to their business, Mr. McNall claims, a higher cheese tariff would favor in Green County, some indicated.

PERMIT FEED FROM TEXAS IN WISCONSIN

Madison—Shipment of cottonseed cake, hulls and meal from points in Texas other than those under quarantine for foot and mouth disease, was authorized today by John D. Jones, Jr., state commissioner of agriculture, in a telegram to the Ft. Worth and Denver railway. The shipments must be accompanied by a certificate of the federal inspector.

A quarantine on all shipments of hay and livestock products from Texas was levied by the state anti-fur commission immediately after the outbreak of the foot and mouth disease in that state. Cattle, sheep and swine, dressed carcasses of calves and sheep, hides, and hocks, hay straw and similar fodder are excluded from the state under the quarantine.

PRIZE MONEY FOR WALWORTH HERD

Elkhorn—The total prize money offered by the Walworth county herd of Holsteins at the Walworth county fair and state fair was $666.68. This does not include nearly $100 won at the National Dairy show. The expense of showing the animals at the two fairs was $375.95 and the money left after paying expenses was used to pay for the caretakers of the animals and partially to reimburse those who had to pay truck charges.

Legislative Program of the Farm Bureau

Jefferson—Important features of the state farm bureau legislative program, which included a demand for an adequate fund for tuberculosis eradication, a gasoline tax bill, were discussed at the directors' meeting of the Jefferson County Farm Bureau, this week.

President Orrin Fletcher of the state farm bureau was present and discussed the legislative program. Senator John C. Schumann, Watertown, was an interested listener.

F. B. Hansen of the Coudy Bros. Packing Co., gave a short talk on their Bantam Hog proposition. As the means of farmers to produce York-shire hogs for prime hams, they are offering premiums for the next two years of the per cent, for the first year, 25 per cent, for the second year, 20 per cent, for the third year, 15 per cent, for the fourth year, 10 per cent, for the fifth year, 5 per cent, on prime bacon hogs.

HENNERY

1. And Othello, king of the Hennes, gathered around him his lords and his princess, his wives and his concubines, his generals and his courtiers.

2. And he opened his mouth and spoke unto them, saying, Behold, the winter cometh when many a hard-working, honest mile shall lack and suffer hunger.

3. When many a whistler shall freeze and be brittle, and many a child shall cause the housewife to hop on one foot.

4. When provender shall be scarce and the way from the protecting feather to the shelter beneath the roost support shall be cold and dismal.

5. Now, therefore, let us colonize and seek all places wherein shall be safety from the cold and the winter-wind, and the winter-wind shall be the wind of the winter.

6. And it was as he commanded, and he sent the Duke of Digeon and his household to dwell beneath the oak, and his followers did find refuge in a far corner in a nest of mill-holes.

7. And Lord Gory did direct to occupy the space between the window sill and General Colman did lead his warriors around behind a nest.

8. And when all that which was commanded was come to pass, Othello, the chief, commended with himself thus: 'Alas! Now we're all set, and the husbandman came up to the henhouse and looked behind the roosts, whereon he had sneaked, in smelling down to the consternation of the hennies of Mitheden, even a week before.

9. And there he espied the Duke of Digeon and his tribe, taking refuge in a spot whereon the dove had not settled. And they were all and dashed with the blood of good pullets.

10. And the husbandman was very wrath and cursed him a great curse and his foot touched the ground as he dashed for the dove bottle.

11. And he sneered the tribe of the Duke of Digeon right lustily so that they perished, every one. And he went home and looked behind the roosts, whereon he had sneaked, in smelling down to the consternation of the hennies of Mitheden, even a week before.

12. And he rejoiced and was exceedingly glad and lifted the water fountain to explain it that the pullets of the Duke of Digeon, the fountain platform was red with the blood of Nab, the bloody, who was a cousin of Othello.

13. And he and his household and his household of Nab became a customary, even unto the fourth generation.

14. And now the husbandman sought diligently and he espied the camps of Othello and of Baron Ousich of Lord Gory and of General Calamity.

15. And he and his household and his household of Nab became a customary, even unto the fourth generation.

16. And he and his household and his household of Nab became a customary, even unto the fourth generation.

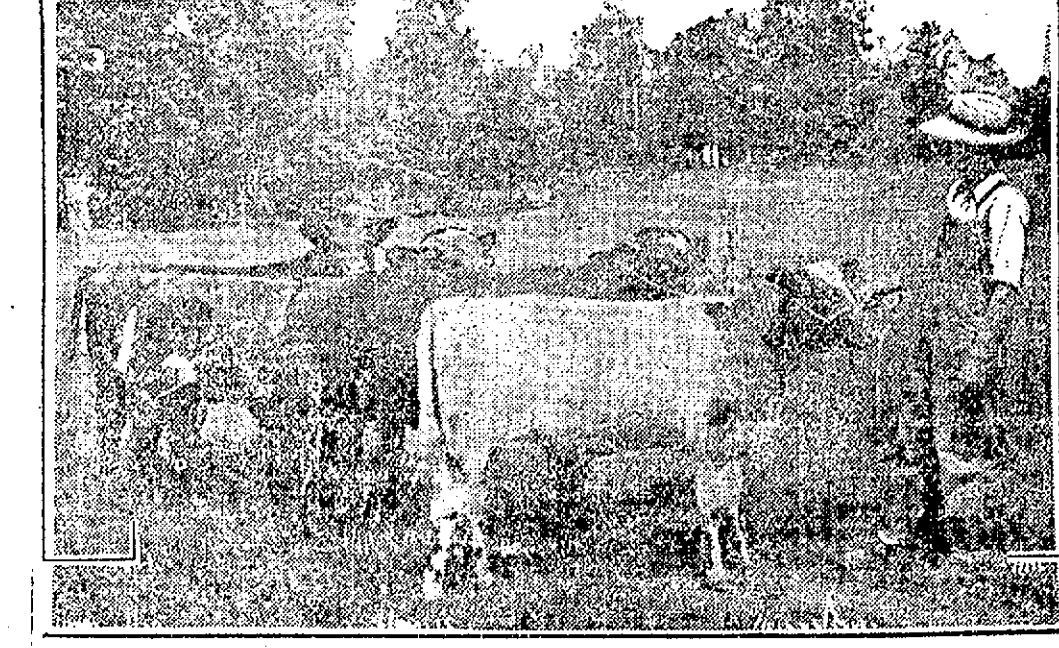

17. And he and his household and his household of Nab became a customary, even unto the fourth generation.

18. And he and his household and his household of Nab became a customary, even unto the fourth generation.

19. And he and his household and his household of Nab became a customary, even unto the fourth generation.

20. And he and his household and his household of Nab became a customary, even unto the fourth generation.

STATE PACKS HALF
OF U. S. PEA CROP

Big Increase This Year Over 1923—10,300,000 Cases Packed.

The Badger state's pea pack is packed.

Although the pea fields were at times smothered with water from heavy rains during the past growing season, this year's pea crop was a decided increase over 1923 pea crop.

Wisconsin farmers packed 10,300,000 cases of peas in Wisconsin this year, says A. L. Whiting, expert on pea culture, Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

This is a little over half of the total pea pack as the total number for the United States is 19,000,000 cases.

100,000 Acres in Peas

These ten million cases of 24 cases each were produced on 100,000 acres of the Badger soil. This shows that the average was a little better than 100 cases of peas for each acre of pea vines.

Figures for last year show that Wisconsin produced 7,000,000 cases out of the 14,000,000 cases that were produced in the United States.

The canning industry of Wisconsin started with one small factory in Manitowish in 1855. From that small start, the industry has grown to the extent that at present there are 150 pea canning factories in the state. Twelve new factories have been started during the present season.

Whiting estimates that Badger farmers received $5,000,000 for their crop last year, and it is possible that the figures for the 1924 crop will overlap the last year's report.

Expect 500 Pea
Canners at State
Meeting Oct. 28-30

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison, Wis.—Improvement in quality of peas for packing, increase in yields and reduction of losses in the field, are central topics for consideration before the twentieth annual convention of the Wisconsin Pea Packers' association here Oct. 28 to 30, according to W. E. Nicholson, secretary of the organization.

More than 500 pea packers from all over the state are expected for the convention.

Dr. Fred Whiting of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, will discuss the problem of inoculation. E. J. Delwiche, Ashland, will speak on the question of selection of seed peas. J. E. Dudley, E. L. Entomologist, will give an illustrated lecture on the control of the pea aphid. M. B. Blinford, Madison, will report on studies in root rot.

Extensive investigations have been carried on this season by the bacteriology department of the college and have shown improvement in yields and quality as result of inoculation of pea seed, officials declare. Control of the pea aphid by means of the new machine called the aphidizer also has made progress, it is said.

Methods of grading canned peas and production problems are other topics on the program. Federal representatives have been planned. Dr. E. T. Clark, Waupun, is president of the state association.

PROSPERITY WAVE
HITS MONTANA

Evansville Farmer Relates Conditions on Recent Visit to Buy Lambs.

Evansville—A wave of prosperity, something they have been unused to for several years, has struck Montana and farmers are accumulating a little surplus to pay on the losses of past years.

W. W. Gillick, Evansville farmer, said upon his return from that western state, buying lambs that are now grazing on Rock county land.

Receiving $1.25 for wheat and $11.25 for yearling ewes and 11 1/2 cents for ewe lambs, are the two largest factors contributing to the new situation, Mr. Gillick found. Farmers are being offered 44 cents for the 1924 wool crop.

There are still some discouraging factors, chief among them being that banks through legal methods are closing out some farmers to protect themselves, now that the property value has increased. Cattlemen haven't such an encouraging situation, as a short corn crop causing a high price, has almost forced stock raisers to use other feed.

MILK PRODUCERS
AWAIT NEW SLASH

Janesville Farmers Take Up Policy of Watchful Waiting on Issue.

Houring reports that little can be expected from the Bowman Dairy company towards making the milk situation in southern Wisconsin satisfactory to its patrons, members of the Janesville Milk Producers' association, at a meeting Friday night at West Side Odd Fellows hall, decided to assume a policy of watchful waiting until Nov. 1, when another price slash is expected.

The meeting was called to hear reports by the committee of three appointed to represent the Janesville association at a conference with Bowman officials in Chicago Friday afternoon, where the members met from Brooklyn and Clinton were also present. The local committee was composed of M. S. Kelllogg, J. J. McGinn and Hugh Hanningway.

Little of Promise.

Fifty producers turned out to hear the committee report that the Bowman company officials had not only refused to assume a policy of watchful waiting for its Wisconsin plants, or that the price was too low, they have a large investment in the plants at Janesville, Clinton and Brooklyn and want the milk in this territory but at their price, the committee were told.

The officials told the committee they are getting all the milk necessary for their fluid milk department from plants near to Chicago, and that they could not handle more and make money. They thought the southern Wisconsin patrons should be well satisfied with the 82 price, holding to other places in the territory where much less was being paid.

Discrimination Charged.

Reverend Kelllogg said the 82 price was 25 cents higher than what they could buy milk for near to Chicago, and that would meet their needs, and thought this was a fair margin for the trouble they were put to in complying with the regulations laid down by the Chicago concern. It was reported to the Janesville producers.

The men who represented Bowman at the conference, Messrs. Bowman, Metzger and Gullman, however, state when committee called the difference between the Wisconsin and Illinois price a discrimination against the Wisconsin producers.

The committee met Tuesday and a half hour conference and, as one Janesville man expressed it, came home "pretty much milked." There was plain speaking on both sides.

Others Issue Warning.

Clinton and Brooklyn men both warned the Janesville company that patrons of their territory were not to tolerate the discrimination. When Clinton men said they would withhold their milk, the Bowman officials told them to start drinking up their milk right now for they were going to get it back anyway. Mr. Kelllogg reported, Janesville producers may

County Agent Is Employee of State and County, Ruling

Madison—A county agricultural agent is a joint employee of the state and county, and as such the county must share in compensation granted him under the workmen's compensation act, the state industrial commission ruled. The commission held that a county agent is entitled to compensation if injured in line of duty, but in the instant case found that evidence was not sufficient to sustain this contention.

The case was from Bayfield county. To support its ruling that the county agent is a joint employee of the state and county, the commission pointed out that the state contributes to his salary as does the county, that an agent is appointed by the superintendent of the state college of agriculture.

Disastrous Floods Inundate Japanese Capital

Reconstruction work in Tokyo, which was almost totally destroyed by earthquakes just a year ago, has been halted by floods. Heavy rains have swollen rivers to unprecedented proportions and all the low-lying sections of the city have been inundated. A family is seen fleeing from its home in the borough of Fukugawa.

Harvest Time Conjures Hallowe'en Sprites

Corn husking and pumpkin season conjures up Hallowe'en and the mischievous sprites that have their way on that eerie night. Above is a table set for the Hallowe'en frolic with witches, bats, goblins and cats sporting on the paper cloth, and a huge Jack Horner pie to hold the favors made of twisted petals in orange and red crepe paper. Black cut-outs are mounted on wire and a row of pointed petals pasted to the back of each, the wire being concealed by twisted black crepe paper. These are inserted in the pie for "flowers." Upper left shows a girl's favor of powder puff pasted on pumpkin cut-out. Upper right candle holder and place card with black candle, pumpkin seal with wire arms holding candle.

Four Stonesifer Brothers Wed Four Stonesifer Sisters

When four Stonesifer brothers married four Stonesifer sisters, who were not related to them, they created a quadruple marriage that probably is without precedent. The weddings took place at different times. There may be a pair of similar weddings, for there are two single Stonesifer sisters and two single brothers. Left to right: Mr. and Mrs. Otis Stonesifer, Deer Park, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Stonesifer, Hanover, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stonesifer, Union Mills, Md.; and Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Stonesifer, Melrose, Mr.

Girl Wields Democratic Baton In Indiana, With Taggart III

Political observers in Indiana say that the illness which forced Tom Taggart, Hoosier Democratic leader, out of the active campaign this year, might have been fatal to the party in the state but for Miss Gertrude F. McHugh, his "right-hand man" and protégé. Nominally she is secretary of the Indiana State Democratic Committee; in Taggart's absence she is running the whole works.

Scores of Women Seek State and National Offices

As would be expected, more women than ever before are candidates for state and national offices this year. Some of them are shown: 1—Mrs. Nettie M. Clapp, for Ohio legislature; 2—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Democratic nominee for governor of Texas; 3—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, Republican nominee, secretary of state, New York; 4—Miss Phoebe Sutcliffe, Democratic nominee for representative in congress from Ohio; 5—Miss Mary V. King, independent candidate for mayor of Boston; 6—Nellie M. Cline, Kansas candidate for congress; 7—Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, Democratic nominee for governor of Wyoming; 8—Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Democratic nominee for congress New Jersey; 9—Mrs. Olive Joy Wright, candidate for Ohio legislature.

Story of "Other Woman" May Save Husband Slayer From Prison Cell

When Alexander Fedeli (right), wealthy Baltimore contractor, told his wife, Antoinette (right), that he had "an important business engagement," she followed him. Before the eyes of the woman with whom she found him, she shot him to death. The "other woman," Hermine Cushman (left), faced the pistol, but the hammer clicked against an empty shell. She says she didn't know Fedeli was married, and her testimony may save Mrs. Fedeli.

Britain Winds Up Warmest Election Campaign in Years

One of the warmest political battles in many years is being waged in the final days of the English election campaign. Above (left to right) Sir Alfred Mond, H. H. Asquith, Lord Beauchamp, David Lloyd George, Sir John Simon and Dr. M. MacNamara are seen on the stump at a big Liberal party mass meeting in London; at right, the Labor premier, Ramsay MacDonald, is seen with his daughter, Isabel, mistress of 10 Downing Street, aboard a train on a campaign tour in Scotland. All three parties, Labor, Liberal and Conservative, are claiming a victory, but the Liberals are expected to lose seats in parliament. The Conservatives are considered likely to gain.

Prince, Expelled from France, To Visit "Charming U. S. Ladies"

Prince Louis of Spain, forced to leave France for misconduct, is coming to the United States, he says. He is seen with his mother, the Infanta Eulalie, aunt of King Alfonso of Spain. "I know many charming American ladies and for several years have been planning to visit them," he announced.

U. S. Girl Bride in London's Most Important Wedding

The principals in this season's most notable international wedding, the Earl of Galloway and his American bride, Philippa Wendell, seen leaving St. Margaret's church, Westminster, London, after the ceremony. Miss Wendell, a New York girl, is the sister of the Countess of Carnarvon.

"Post No Bills" Restrictions

Do not apply to the widely read A-B-C Classified Section of the Gazette.

That's just what this section is designed for--the posting of all kinds of bills, notices, offers and general opportunity information.

Not little bills they are, too--not a bit like the unsightly posters which mar the countryside, spoil the scenery, convert buildings into shanties, and make an offense out of an ordinary fence.

A-B-C Classified advertisers prove their good judgment in selecting the Gazette as the medium through which to broadcast their offers--and you will find their offers exactly as admirable as their judgment.

Read the A-B-C "bills" daily--and constantly keep in touch with all the real opportunity news which comes to

How to Avoid Accidents By Good Driving

No one cares to be involved in an accident and as a matter of fact only a very small percentage of automobile owners ever do have an accident of a serious nature. A large proportion of the accidents that do occur are the result of carelessness or recklessness and can be avoided if every driver will play the game and obey both the written and unwritten rules of the road.

Take accidents that damage the radiator or front mudguards. You may be driving behind another car when all at once the driver in front starts to slow up without signaling you. As you have had no warning of the stop, it may be in the second that elapses before you realize the car in front is stopping, that you are not able to pull up quick enough with the result that the radiator of your car is jammed into the car in front. Now, who is responsible for this accident? Can you prove that the man in front did not signal? Were you traveling too close behind? Were your brakes so poor that you could not pull up promptly? It is often very difficult to prove just WHO is responsible for an accident of this kind.

Now this class of accident is very common, especially since four wheel brakes have become standard equipment on so many cars. Every driver should make an absolute rule before slowing down, stopping or turning to put out the left hand and signal so that if there is a car behind you, the driver will know just what you are going to do and have a chance to pull up in plenty of time. If every driver would only do this, the number of accidents could be very considerably reduced.

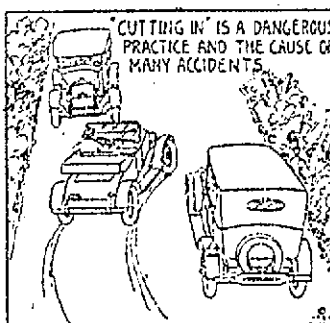

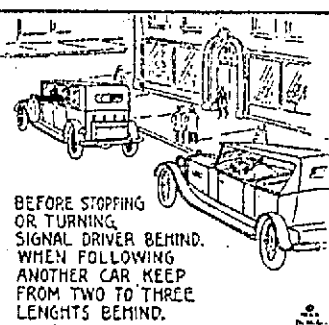

It often happens, however, that the driver in front gives the proper signal, yet an accident occurs. This may be due to one of two causes.

The driver in the rear car may be traveling so close to the car in front that if the driver in front makes a quick stop the rear car is so close that it cannot stop before there is a collision.

Unless you are driving in heavy city traffic, you should always keep a distance equal to at least three lengths of your car away from the car in front. In addition to keeping the correct distance behind the car in front of you, make sure every day before you have driven very far that your brakes are in good condition. If your brakes are not in good order, you do not have perfect control of your car and you are a danger not only to yourself but to every other user of the road. Inspect and test your brakes frequently, make sure they act promptly when applied, keep three full lengths behind the car in front of you, and the probability is that you will never be involved in a rear end collision or accident.

Accidents that damage the front or rear mudguards are often the result of reckless driving. Many drivers hate to drive behind another car or be passed by anyone on the road. It often happens on a popular highway that traffic is heavy and everyone must drive fairly slowly. Accidents occur when some flashy driver thinks he will show the world what a wonderful driver he is and as soon as he sees a gap, will suddenly pull out and "cut in" ahead to pass the car in front, then just as suddenly swerve in front of the car he passes, compelling the driver to slow up to avoid having his front fenders smashed. This type of driver is a genuine "road hog" and has the hearty contempt of every decent driver. It is this class of driver who is responsible for many fatal accidents.

It is quite reasonable and necessary to pass another car at times, but there is a right and a wrong way to do it. When you wish to pass, pull out GRADUALLY from behind the car in front so that you have a clear view of the road and the traffic coming toward you. If there is another car approaching you can judge whether you have enough time to pass or if it is safer to allow the car coming toward you to pass before you try to pass the car in front.
